During the time that the earth maintained the great heat to which we shave alluded, the heated globe acted as a hot-hed for those immenses

The plants now on the earth, that are akin to the flora of that period, all require a trop can temperature and a hot-moist atmosphere. And when we remember the fact that the flora of the coal period could grow in no other conditions than such as we have named, and reflect upon the diffusion of coal over the earth's surface, we know that a hot climate universally prevailed. The human or decayed vegetable

Wheat Crop, &c.—The result of numerous in quiries we have made from different sections of this region establishes the gratifying fact that the wheat prospects of this part of the country lave rarely if ever been better than they are now, at this stage of the season. The last week's mild weather, with the weather ranges, having started vegetation of all kinds into new life, the wheat crops appear to feel the goodly effects amazingly. At the present time all is well in this particular. Our accounts from abroad, so far as this Stake is concerned, are encouraging for good wheat crops, while all accounts unter in saying that a much large quantity of wheat has been sown than last season. The weather of the last week has been highly favorable to the farming interests. The fruit in this region promises well. We have not heard thus far the usual complaints, generally made prematurely, of all the peaches heing killed &c., and trust there will be no reason for such complaints. But the weather is so fickle, we are never safe till the summer has set in earnestly. — Egunsveill Jour.
